

My Story

During my freshman year of college at Wingate University I had the opportunity to attend a Campus Outreach regional women’s conference. It was there that I first understood what it meant to be a disciple of Christ. I began to grow in my faith, with the assistance of C.O. staff and student leaders throughout my undergraduate career. I am currently convinced that there is no better way that I can spend my life immediately after college than to invest in college students. I am jealous for others to have the gospel transformation that I have received. I desire to be apart of the ministry of the gospel, particularly in the university context. The goal in all of this is that God would be glorified and his kingdom would be advanced in the world.
